

Mary Lerma Ann M. Limjoco

Through all the tears and the laughter, all the “Hi, I’m Ann!”’s and the new friends thereafter, all the memories cherished forever, this girl sailed through the storm with her head held high. Beyond her loud persona is an independent woman with a genuine heart to make a difference, to experience the beauty of the world, to speak out when something has to be spoken, and to dream bigger than we thought possible. Ann taught me to be bold, to take risks, to live, and simply live. (K. Nemo)

“You can’t stay in your corner of the Forest waiting for others to come to you. You have to go to them sometimes.” (A. A. Milne, Winnie the Pooh)
In order to grow, wander beyond what you know. Welcome each mysterious tomorrow, as if you were once again that sanguine child from not so long ago.
