

Cienzi Anne D. Sanqui

Walking into the Ateneo was no easy feat. I had yet to learn that walking out was the harder part. It was in this university that I experienced the woes of failure and the elation of success. The sleepless nights, cups of coffee, freeloading groupmates, newfound friends, life-changing professors, and everything in between – all led me to this moment. To my friends, loved ones, and most importantly to God, I can proudly say that it is by your strength that I can now move down from the hill.

Julia Lieselotte Y. Sy

“You can bend but never break me because it only serves to make me more determined to achieve my final goal and I come back even stronger, not a novice any longer.” (Helen Reddy, I Am a Woman)