

MINOR IN LITERATURE

Kimberly T. Pavon

I was a shy girl who would always play it safe, but Ateneo has molded me to become a confident risk-taker. My real journey in Ateneo was within myself. I cherished the chance encounters that turned into life-long friendships. I embraced the moments I tasted real failure, and I conditioned myself to take every opportunity I can get. Choosing legendary profs, aiming for the harder tasks, and constantly striving for excellence have indeed broken down my boundaries and widened my limits.

In Ateneo, I learned that it's okay to make mistakes. At the end of the day, what matters is that you're doing something that you're most passionate about with the people you love. "Kung sapat na ang bakit, kaya na ang kahit anong paano." (J. Bolano)
