

Melvin Luis D. Mendoza

Early on, I kept on thinking about how my life would've been economically better if I hadn't pursued DGDD and started working instead. This thought slowly disappeared when I met my thesis group, though. They're two of the most amazing people I'll ever meet. This, along with all of the other relationships I've built within this year. The job can wait; these things are all priceless.

Raphael Angelo S. Reventar

"How could sincerity be a condition of friendship? A liking for the truth at all costs is a passion that spares nothing and that nothing can withstand." (Albert Camus)