

Wilhelm Alain R. Moraga

Maps and bearings have no use when you don't have any destination in mind. Instead, find your way in day by sight. And at night, be guided by serene starlight. If you're lucky you might just find the home that you miss but never came to mind. Everyone knows the way to Ithaca, yet only a charmed few wash up on Ogygia.

Anna Danielle D. Mortel

In her eyes the stars shine, and beauty radiates in her soul. Amidst trouble she does not resign in the pursuit of her goal. Difficult times when anyone would have faltered; the moments you just stop and stare, your whole worldview being altered. These moments came but she did not let them take her fire. She responded the same. It did not outweigh her desire for making the world a kinder place, making it for all. Her entire being acts with grace, faithfully answering to her call. (J.Pineda)