

Geoffrey Hendel A. Cabral

Never think that you have seen all that you can be; the brightest eyes are the ones that look towards possibility, not because they see where they are going, but because they are always searching, and so they are always finding, always learning. I carry this thought, as a reminder to be open to what the world has for me. From the people I've met and the adventures I've made, to the successes I've achieved and failures I've overcome, the Ateneo has changed me. I will always be thankful for that.

Maria Regina Antonin M. Caluag

"If we wait until we're ready, we'll be waiting for the rest of our lives."
(Lemony Snicket, The Ersatz Elevator)