

Joshua Alexis Miguel C. Villanueva

Standing tall at 6'3", Josh is nothing like your typical athlete. Most people know him as the middle blocker from the UAAP Men's Volleyball Champion Team, but what makes him a true champion is his drive to serve, inside and outside the court. He has both brains and brawns combined, but more than this, he is a man of strength and integrity. In the Ateneo, he has grown to become the embodiment of magis--doing more for Christ and for others. He is definitely a champion in life.

Ma. Carmela M. Vinzon

"The face opens the primordial discourse whose first word is obligation."
(E. Levinas, Totality and Infinity)

A life lived in service to the face of the Other is the life worth living. This lesson, learned both in and out of the classroom, is the pivotal understanding that has inspired my hunger. This commitment obliges my will to continue in so far as I have truly answered to the very reason I was placed in this world. Future Carmela, when you read this always remember why you do these things.
