Through smoke-tanged lips and alcohol-soaked tongues, wailing of the walls and comforting shoulders, consecutive sleepless days and piles of papers, blinking cursors of unsent replies, nights we wish would last forever, parking lot love stories, slow whispers and loud laughter in 1520, card games in MVP, and Fridays in Gonzaga; we are still here.

As I stand on this hill, I look towards a new adventure. There will be more tears, more disappointment, and above all, more love to feel. Keep going.

Julius Pierre L. Neri

Don't dwell on the things you can't control, and focus on the things you can. Cast off the past, cruise in the present, and sail towards the future. I have learned these in my 4 years in the Ateneo through my academics, music, and being in the Ateneo Golf Team. Thinking positive is the key to happiness, and things can only get better from where you are now. As a famous golf quote goes, "The most important shot in golf is the next one."
