

MINOR IN ECONOMICS

Raymond Dominic M. Doctor

With Dobie graduating, I am reminded of Paul Pierce's near retirement, for graduation is a student's retirement.

Like Pierce with Boston, Dobie traveled and triumphed with Ateneo for 15 years. Now he has to retire from that, so I want him to know that it's not the end. In leaving, he opens the hope of taking things anew, to win again. Dobie, in your farewell, party like it's 2008 and be the Finals MVP. You're a champ, and will always be one.

And that? That's the Truth.

(K. Marquez)

Jake Michael S. Dy

I believe that life is a series of great journeys to a set of greater destinations. In what seemed like the shortest 4 years of my life, my journey in Ateneo has come and gone. Through this journey, I carry with me friends I now call family, lessons from past mistakes, experiences I have grown from, a far better version of myself, and the challenge to continuously grow. Now, as I start a new journey towards another destination, I have plenty of reasons to always look back and be thankful.