Although things may often not turn out as you envisioned them, life will continue and brighter days will lie ahead. Developing your ideal identity will face you with great challenges and will require you to make sacrifices. You will make mistakes. You will be moving on with your life, but do not let go of your experiences in the Ateneo and the lessons that you have learned. They have helped shape the kind of person that you are today.

No one goes down the hill self-centered. Through all the profound lessons, sleepless nights, and a rollercoaster of success and failure, the Ateneo taught me to think outside of and go beyond myself. To Blue Symphony, thanks for providing the colorful melody to the everyday rhythm of my college life, and for making a leader out of a former loner. It's normal to fear the darkness of the unknown, but I hope you find the courage to keep moving forward and let your own light guide you and shine.
