

Catherine Joyce N. Ang

They say that true friends are like diamonds — rare and hard to find. Ateneo, I'm glad to have found a rare gem among the stones. When I met Cathy, I knew her as a simple, quiet girl, but through the years, I watched her grow into a young lady who exemplifies strength and kindness. She stands up for her friends and beliefs and carries herself with confidence. As she graduates, I'm certain that she will remain true to herself and continue to be a diamond in the lives of others. (S. Gonida)

Jayvee F. Angala

My stay in the Ateneo is not all joy and fun. There are moments of restlessness and feelings of hopelessness. During these times, I always ask myself why am I here, why I keep on holding on, and the answer remains the same: love. My answer to the question why is because I love. My love, my desire, is enough to answer any why.