Four years of sleepless nights, and here I am on the brink of embarking on a new adventure. I've made new friends—some friendships lasted, and some wilted. I've gone through hell months and have the burns to show for it. I've been roasted time and time again, but in the end, I've come out strong as steel, hard as diamond. Thank you, Ateneo. I have learned more about myself and about the world because of you. Now, I'm ready for what's next. Bring it on.

DOUBLE MAJOR IN AB CHINESE STUDIES (HUMANITIES TRACK); MINOR IN THEATER ARTS (DIRECTING TRACK)

Michael Jeremy I. Ubamos

Ubs is a character of tragedy and comedy. He's awkward at times and makes a fool of himself constantly. He doesn't really know how to express himself, so he shows he cares in the best way he knows how: Spending time with you and keeping you company. He's a busy man, but despite the many things he has to do, like his academics, his org presidency, and his theater productions, he always has time for you. He's a true friend and you're lucky if you're one of his. (S. Landayan and C. Alarde)
