The Ateneo has been my home away from home for the past 17 years. I have been lucky to be a part of multiple families: from my baseball team, the Ateneo Management Economics Organization, and the Development Studies Community where I have served with passion in the same way that they have contributed greatly to my growth as a person. The journey was never easy. To all those who have helped me along the way, and to those who I have helped in my own little ways, I thank you.
