She's experienced much from in her voyage in Ateneo, from spending fair-weathered days by having a good time with friends to cruising through the worst of academic storms. She has established a tight circle of friends as well, and they've aided her on days when she couldn't be as brave a captain of her ship as she usually is. She's the sunniest soul I know of in this campus, and I pray she may remain to be so. (E. Cua)
