

MINOR IN INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS

Jose Luis C. Manglallan

Laughter never strays too far away from Jolo. Whether he's talking along SEC walk or mourning after a test, he always brightens up everyone's day. Having known him for eight years but only liking him for the latter half, I've taken some time to get used to him. But with those buff arms to cry on or squeeze in glee, he can make any moment better. Kidding aside, once you get past the humor and muscles, it's easy to see a great student, but an even better companion in Jolo Manglallan. (B. Zambarrano)

MINOR IN CHINESE STUDIES

Himig S. Marcos

The boy who graduated from high school as a seagull loses the "s" and finally leaves college as an eagle! Picking up a few things here and there, he found a home in the blue university along Katipunan. He learned to love, to hurt, and to love again with all of his heart. He will forever cherish the four great years filled with greater inspirations and the greatest memories. As he goes up the hill, this boy-turned-man for others wishes to thank everyone for shaping who he is today.
