

WITH A SPECIALIZATION IN INTERACTIVE MULTIMEDIA

Aemielvin C. Loremia

I have always been a dreamer. I have always dreamed of attaining success quantifiable by money. My happy years in Ateneo taught me a valuable lesson: success isn't everything in life. Ateneo helped me see the social realities around me, urged me to lend my voice for the voiceless, and forged me to become a man-for-others. I became a different kind of dreamer – one who dreams of change for the better.

Thank you, Ateneo, my friends and family, for transforming me.

In life, we are never sure about who we truly are. Every time we feel we do, we get a hard reminder that we never stop journeying. Every experience we have continue to form another aspect of ourselves. Our deepest desires and our views of the world can change so much in such a short amount of time. Each experience doesn't define us; we can always keep doing and living to define ourselves otherwise.
