

MINOR IN HISTORY

Aaron Gabrielle M. Tanyag

Here's to the all-nighters and crammed papers, the long tests and org projects, the cups of coffee and bottles of beer, the air balls and bank shots, the rallies and commutes, the lost dreams and new hopes, the heartbreaks and triumphs. To the people who have been part of this journey, for the lessons, stories and experiences, I remain eternally grateful. To my batch mates and future self, remember that when the world becomes too heavy to bear, there will always be someone willing to listen.

Miguel Rafael S. Tupas

It's hard to smile through all the grueling nights of studying, heavy academic workloads, and uncountable cups of coffee – but I'm not doing this for me: I'm doing this for my parents, my sisters, my friends, and to anybody who's ever been hopeful enough to believe in me. For those I love, I will sacrifice.
