

MINOR IN FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT

James Theodore L. Gan

When you first see James, he seems like the most laid-back and relaxed person around. Once you get to know him, you see passion. You see the epitome of work-life balance: Academic achiever breezing through the workload, active student leader in MEA, gaming virtuoso, and fun-loving yet dependable friend. His short yet meaningful stay in Ateneo has not only equipped him with a solid foundation and skill set for the future, but has also provided him with cherished friendships and lasting memories.

MINOR IN CHINESE STUDIES

Miguel Jose Jaime L. Gana

Mikey will never fail to greet you with his amiable smile. No matter how stressed he may be, you can always count on him for anything. He will make time for your rants and stories because he has a gift not a lot of people have: he knows how to listen. He will be that encouraging source of comfort at 3AM when you are both still working. Most lasting of all is Mikey's awkward charm that, while amusing at first, leaves an irreplaceable mark of endearment on your heart. (A. Lee and G. Tantoco)
