

Liam L. Tolentino

The awareness of the impermanence of things. As I write, I also let go. Though I let go, I also gain. Rinse and repeat, the rhythm of things. I cannot write of things as interesting, though they are memorable. 6 to 9 PM classes, and waiting sheds full of memories. Everything moves according to its own rhythm. And Ateneo has taught me to move according to mine, slow as it is. Thank you for giving me the place to be, and to discover others be: as they are and as they will be.

MINOR IN EDUCATION

Marc Carlo M. Victorio

Maligaw at magpaligaw. Marahil, sa buong tahak ko sa Ateneo, madalas akong naliligaw pero palaging nagpapaligaw. Naligaw rin sa ACIL na walang karanasan sa pagiging katekista, pero niligawan, minahal at napamahal pa. Sa pagkakataong ikaw ang nagpapasaya, pero ikaw pala ang mapapasaya. Hindi ko man naranasan ang Pilosopiya ni Ferriols, nagpaligaw pa rin ako sa lenggwahe ng Pilosopiya, kadalasan naliligaw. Sabi nga nila, maging bukas sa posibilidad, kaya masarap maligaw at magpaligaw.