

Aaron Jevon Anthony S. Dy

A wise man once said, “Pag mahal mo talaga ipaglalaban mo eh.” That is exactly what this wise man did in his stay in Ateneo. Jevon fought the good fight. His all-nighters to help his group, the 200 high fives to incoming freshies, and the consistent messages/calls to friends and family exemplify this. Yet one of his greatest successes is that he inspired many others to do the same. He’s the mentor, boss, friend, the one who taught us to fight for what we love, the one who always believes in us.

MINOR IN INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS

Alessandra Marie T. Eala

If you’re looking for the superstar, she’s probably at the gym or climbing a mountain. With everything she’s got going on, it’s a wonder how Lex is able to stay sane and ace her classes. She does so much yet manages to look easy, breezy, beautiful. If you’re lucky enough to be her friend, you know that she has a rare talent of turning even the darkest days around with her Pinterest-worthy quotes. There’s no doubt she’s made Ateneo a more awesome place, one Fitbit step and granola bar at a time.