Tea is not just that pretty girl sitting at your favorite café eating bread while studying. She's the smartest, most wonderful friend who's always there when you need someone to cry to or light eggs on fire with for class. At 11 PM on a particularly stressful weekday, she holds up (K-pop) lightsticks above the egg; and getting a good shot is the hardest thing when you're both crying from laughter. Somehow even in the most ridiculous situations like these, she'd still manage to look beautiful.
