

Carl Angelo D. Malonjao

The only thing I expected upon entering college was that it was going to be stressful. I remember back in freshman year, I told myself that I wouldn't take any evening classes or "terror profs" just to try and keep my load as light as possible. Fortunately, pre-enlistment and being batch 2 for enlistment helped me get a bit of both. Things got harder in the latter years, but all the hardships allowed me to grow. I don't think I would have appreciated college without the stressful moments.

MINOR IN EDUCATION

Michelle Marie Victoria M. Melchor

I survived Organic Chemistry, I can survive anything else.