

MINOR IN DEVELOPMENT MANAGEMENT

Antonio Joaquin R. Olaguer

Besides the thousands of Chino's jokes and pranks, you won't be able to count how many real conversations you'll have with him about self-growth, philosophy, love, and religion. With an intense passion for self-improvement, he always pushes himself and those around him to always be better. Chino is that friend who will go an extra mile with you, never failing to make you laugh and think a little bit more each time. (J. P. Insigne)

Hans Bryan Jeremy C. Ong

We all enter college thinking that grades carry a certain weight on their future. We don't know it yet, but these have little influence on how our lives will turn out. The best indicator of future success is how well we've grown and developed as a person. Ateneo has taught us how to be better people, to nurture a passion for achievement, and to open ourselves up to a world that needs our help. We should realize it is not grades, but rather the life lessons that will see us through our journey.