

MINOR IN INTERACTIVE MULTIMEDIA

Adrian Paolo P. Cordero

Everything feels more tiring after the last four years, but that's probably because I tried a bit of everything. Well, okay, maybe not everything – I'm saving the rest for later. Will there really be a later – who knows? Staying determined anyway, because it's the ones with the most determination who can change things.

What started as a wide-eyed journey in Layag is now coming to a close as we pull ourselves into the daungan. The widened horizons from the trials Ateneo sent my way is what I will bring with me, as I leave the docks to start another daunting journey. I face this new challenge with a little understanding of myself and the knowledge that I have a dock to rest on in the Ateneo. Thank you Ateneo, and all those I met in my journey here, for helping me get to where I now stand.
