

MINOR IN SUSTAINABILITY

Joseph Benedict E. Cunanan

To the joys and heartaches, the knowledge and wisdom, the professors who made classes feel like magic, and the people I can now call family. It was one hell of a ride, one I would ride again in a heartbeat. All this, I attribute to the one and only Ateneo. I may have had my reservations, but looking back, it was all worthwhile.

Jaime Miguel Lazaro D. De Guzman III

Having studied in this university for 16 years, I've met a countless number of people who taught me so much about myself and the world. Each and every soul that has passed through my life has formed me into the person that I am now. These figures represent the many chapters and stories in this unfinished book that has yet to reach its climax. They've shaped me and will continue to guide me as I traverse from the gentle comforts of my second home to the vast unknown that is the real world.
