

Guil M. Toledo

“The only limits for tomorrow are the doubts we have today.” (The Power of Six, Pittacus Lore)

MINORS IN HISPANIC STUDIES AND CREATIVE WRITING

Natalie Ann Isabella Unson

My words fail to articulate all that I’ve learned and loved these past four years, so allow me to borrow from those greater than I. According to Charles Baudelaire: “One must always be drunk. That’s all that matters; that’s our one imperative need. So as not to feel Time’s horrible burden that breaks your shoulders and bows you down, you must get drunk without ceasing. But what with? With wine, with poetry, or with virtue, as you choose. But get drunk.”