

Ariston Jose A. Montemayor

If there's anyone you would need in times of hardship, it would definitely be a friend like Ton — the most reliable, loyal friend anyone could ever ask for.

One day I'll look back and fail to remember the homework done on sleepless nights, the clutch moments, or the exams that I passed. No. I'll remember you. I'll remember the people I've shared this journey with, how much I laughed during our 4AM conversations and how we tried our best to stay awake in class the next day. I'll remember us. And maybe I'll call you up to ask you how you are, but for sure, I'll be missing you. We'll go our separate ways, but I hope our paths will cross again.
