

Paul Michael Rae B. Fria

Thank you, Mom and Dad. I may be the hardest person to get along with or to take care of, but you stretched your patience no matter how many times I bring you headaches and heartaches. Thank you very much for all the things you both have given me. The two of you are both my personal living proof that unconditional love exists in this world. I don't say it much to you, but I hope you know that I love you and I am grateful for you both.

Four years ago, I had a Plan B in mind, and I was prepared to let you go. How funny is it that just when I thought I was ready, the universe seemed to have conspired to lead me back to you? So here I am, four years after, with a heart that's bigger, a mind that's wiser, and a life filled with thousands of memories from hundreds of people to cherish. Forget all the "what-ifs" and "could-have-beens", because choosing you was one of the best decisions I have made. No regrets, Ateneo.
