

MINOR IN INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS

Maegan V. Zablan

Thank you, Ateneo, for being my home for the last four years. This journey has been both challenging and fulfilling, but now it's time to dock and embark on a new one. As I face this uncertain voyage, I bring with me this quote: "We should go with our lives where we most need to go and where we are most needed." (The Calling of Voices, F. Buechner)
Where is this place exactly? Honestly, I'm still unsure. But if we keep our lives open, I know the right place will find us.

Lou Ferino G. Zamora

Life is mysterious, and I've always wanted to understand it. What I learned during my stay in Ateneo is that life can best be understood when it's lived; the more we do with our lives, the more we have opportunities to understand it. Of course, it doesn't end there. I realize that I still have a long way to go, and my journey has just begun. I still have people to meet, places to go, and billions of questions to ask, like why is there a light in the fridge but not in the freezer?