My stay in Ateneo has taught me how to think more critically, as well as how to find resources when there seems to be none at hand. Here's to the storms we've braved together, the days when there seemed to be no wind, the sleepless nights, and the moments when we couldn't navigate towards our destination. We may be graduating, but the journey hasn't ended, it's only just begun.

Looking back on my journey in Ateneo, I have never thought of giving myself in order to relate with others. To be honest, I would not have acknowledged this change in me, if I did not ask myself, "Why?" amidst the journey. So, I would like to extend my gratitude to my family, Bouch and Musmos Ateneo, among others, for making it worthwhile. In the end, keep in mind these two quotes from Sir Lance: "Iisa lang ang buhay mo, saan mo itataya?" and "Kung sapat ang bakit, kaya ang kahit anumang paano."
