

Marielle Chelsea S. Tambunting

The past four years have been all about transcending my boundaries: a constant process of challenging myself, opening my mind and attaining new skills. With all the people and experiences that came with it, it has allowed me not only to explore, but also, to feed and share my heart.

I started my university life hoping for the growth I yearned to see in myself. Now, I'm moving forward with a deep, more holistic passion for the world; excited to face all of life's adventures head-on.

Four years of tripping, bruising, surviving, and realizing, and I wouldn't have it any other way.

Thank you, Ateneo, for reminding me to never lose my sense of wonder.
