

MINOR IN ENTERPRISE DEVELOPMENT; MINOR IN LITERATURE

Ria Faye P. Paderanga

There are not enough words to describe how humbling it was to be part of the Ateneo. Years full of joy, sadness, and surprises prepared me for what is yet to come. To this day, my heart is bursting with fervor as I leave the comforts of my home. But, I am eternally grateful for the lovely years that I have spent there.

MINOR IN ENTERPRISE DEVELOPMENT

Carina Isabella M. Paguio

Find it. Find the thing you love and pursue it relentlessly. Learn as much as you can. Grow in the space that you're given. Take small steps until you find that you've come much further than you could have thought possible. Then keep going. Take risks knowing you're good enough for whatever follows. Smile especially when it gets tough. There will always be more things for which to be thankful. Most importantly, take your time.