

TRACKS: MANAGEMENT & ECONOMICS; MINORING IN PHILOSOPHY

Joshua Emmanuel M. Cruz

Good news: We're finally graduating! After four to five long years of readings, quizzes, papers and such, we somehow managed to get past that. We somehow managed to make it work, despite x amounts of coffee, countless tears shed, and numerous sleepless nights. College was a wonderful journey, thanks to you guys. It was hard but indeed wonderful. Congrats to us, Batch 2017! Never been happier for us! Hope to see you guys around.

Bad news: Life is still absurd, and we're all just gonna die anyway.

Luis Alfonso L. Cruz

I never liked doing papers. Ateneo made me do things like this, things I could barely stand doing. The school however, made me appreciate these moments of chaos. Through the thousand-word essays and the sleepless nights, I was able to understand and fully grasp my capabilities and potential. I have Ateneo to thank for constantly pushing me to work on things I couldn't stand doing, such as this write up.