A.K.A Raffy/ Senyor/ Sausage/ Candyman/ Husky. Living life by bringing happiness to those I meet along the way. I've always felt that one of the best ways to find happiness is in helping others find their own happiness. Seeing others smile will always be a magical experience for me. To the countless amazing people I've met in college, I can't thank you enough for you are the reason why I am positive that life is worth living. Be true to who you are. Never give up. Never forget to live and love.

Although Ateneo was given to me as a second shot at college, never would have I expected that it was going to be the most valuable experience in my life. It pushed me beyond my comfort zone, equipped me with values and skills that I will have for life, and helped me build a better understanding of myself and the world. Above all, it was not about me being perfect, but it was making the most of the time I had.
