

Mary Rosary M. Dispo

It took me a while to find a home in Ateneo. In a world where numbers and science took centre stage, the written word was seen as unnecessary. But it was through words that I found what it meant to feel like I belonged.

To the words that bring all our loves to life, to the words that remind us to count our dreams amongst the stars, and to the words that bring the fire in our eyes, thank you.

I am finally home.

Helene Micaela S. Enriquez

Thank you, Ateneo, for the literature, theatre, art, and people. And thank you Carly Rae Jepsen. For being born and making E·MO·TION Side B. See y'all in the trenches—let's give them hell.