

MINOR IN FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT

Charlon L. Ortega

Growing in Ateneo meant withstanding strong waves that crashed into me more times than I thought I could deal with. It meant finding myself in stressful situations that knocked me off course. It meant picking myself up even when it seemed hopeless. After undergoing these experiences, I realized that it is only when we are lost and under the storm that we become better. Let this be a reminder – to myself and to everyone – not to give up easily, and to always have that one big fight in all of us.

MINOR IN INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS

Aleiza Jan S. Otadoy

Mistakes are inevitable. If we're too scared to make mistakes, we will miss out on experiencing life. These last four years of making mistakes and learning from them have been the best years of my life, and I have no one else to thank but my family for allowing me to make my own mistakes and supporting me all the way. This one's for you, Kuya, Ma, and Pa.