

MINOR IN FINANCIAL MANAGEMENT

Chloei Kaye Y. Choa

Thank you Ateneo for being my second home these last four years, for giving me days that I am most happy, to days that are most stressful, for letting me meet people that I want to treasure my whole life, for teaching me lessons far beyond I want and need, for developing my skills and talents, for helping me grow, for allowing me to make you part of my identity, and most of all, for the countless precious memories that are now part of what and who I am till the end of time. Thank you.

“Make memories, not dreams” & “I don’t have friends, I have family” are what perfectly describe my story. CHEERS! to my dream of entering The Ateneo, to my first class, all-nighters, clutch presentations, frustrated QPI, to my last class, to my college constants, the laughter and tears we shared, spontaneous midnight drives and (food)adventures, to my friends forming Early Morning Iswit Labers (E.M.I.L.) my second family, WE DID IT! Thank you for the ride; you’re the reason why I am here today.
