Michael Gabriel B. Paz

Studying in the Ateneo for 16 years has opened countless opportunities for me to grow. The successes in class presentations, sleepless overnights to accomplish a project, eye-opening lectures, humbling outreaches—all of which bore fruit in the values and the kind of person I am today. The journey had its peaks and valleys and will still do in the new journey ahead. But I will always look forward to each opportunity to grow.

“Never restrict yourself from growing. You deserve to grow.” (Jo Cortez)

Jairus Solomon C. Perez

Jairus is the kind of friend whom you would want to board a ship with. He turns each day of the journey into something you'll look back on to. He will throw you into the water then laugh at you, but he will pull you back to the ship because he loves you dearly. He's the ideal anchorage for when you feel like going insane. It's easy to be comfortable around him, which makes the journey fun and worthwhile. College is bound to dock, but friendship with Jairus will surely continue to set sail.
