

Felicio Leon M. Barcelon III

Returning to college at a much older age was a little challenging. I did not have much time for orgs or to make a lot of friends. Most of the time I spent outside school was either for working or helping out my family. Despite all that, if there's anything that I am grateful for during my time in the Ateneo, it's discovering that, despite our different backgrounds, we are all capable of doing good for ourselves, our family, and our community. To my family, thank you for your unwavering support.

As I end my stint in your majestic halls, I tender my deepest gratitude for allowing me to embrace your glory and splendor. Thank you for teaching me how to think, not what to think; for letting me apply proper discernment in all my undertakings. Most of all, for inculcating the stance of being the better man under any circumstance. I will always cherish the powerful sweep of your Blue Eagle's wings that helped me become the man that I am today. I am beyond grateful. Thank you, Ateneo.
