

MINOR IN ENTERPRISE DEVELOPMENT

Marika Gabrielle G. Dayrit

Her petite demeanour and exuberance of squishy cheeks may render her cute and harmless, but her personality is not limited to 5 feet, 1 inch. With the wisdom of an 80 year old, the mannerisms of a 12 year old, and the sleeping schedule of a polar bear at the peak of winter, Marika eclipses all stereotypes. She consistently grows with all the stress and work she so loves to embrace, and will never let anything define her -- not even her eyebrows.

“Mischief managed.”

Antonio Miguel M. De Guzman

I am the captain of my own journey, one that I call life. The journey that I have embarked on with people close to me. The journey that I will continue with the people who are dear to me. The journey that may have been filled with turbulence, challenge, and uncertainty, yet one that has enlightened, molded, and strengthened me. As I disembark from the ship I have boarded four years ago, I, with tears of joy, hope to embark on a journey in the sky that I have dreamt of all my life.
