

Andreev Martineau P. Bajet

College taught me how to write a decent paper, how to solve weird equations, how an awkward guy can actually make friends, how Philosophy does not help you win a job but how it helps you win at life, and most of all, how not all things can be learned inside the school.

Ateneo,

Thank you for the knowledge.

Thank you for my friends.

Thank you for both the good and bad times.

Most importantly, thank you for believing in people who cannot even believe in themselves.

Dean Karlo D. Bardeloza

5 years in the Ateneo to hone my skills as a computer engineer. 5 years of applying what I learned to help Filipinos. 5 years of making my parents proud and being proud of them. 5 years of waiting for my dearest. 5 years of sharing joy, stress, and tears. But it doesn't end after 5 years. "No one knows what the future holds. That's why its potential is infinite." (R. Okabe). Thus, to grasp this infinite potential, engineers do not only look towards the future, but also innovate it & themselves.
