

Christopher Kyle M. Siongco

Keep moving forward. These are the three words I kept in mind during college. It reminded me to never give up even when I was facing insurmountable odds. By keeping a mentality of pushing through, I was able to bring myself to finish what I started and I didn't let failure stop me. I always stood tall, and believed in my capability to do all things. It also opened new possibilities allowing me to not get stuck in the past. As I go down the hill, these three words will always be a part of me.