

Iñigo Raphael C. Bustamante

College pushes individuals to experience certain opposing situations—passing or failing classes, saying hello to new people or saying good bye to old friends, sleeping late or waking up early for requirements, having the time to eat or not eating at all, drinking coffee and energy drinks or drinking alcohol, enlisting in classes of so-called “terror” or “sure pass” professors, the 5 minutes more or 5 minutes left in deadlines. Despite any situation I was in, I still managed. Thank you Ateneo!

Kyle Matthew Jerico O. Camarillo

My mother won't stop carrying me until she finds me at the pinnacle of happiness. When I look back, I still find her reaching for the stars and beyond just to shine its light on me. Gently and lovingly. My father taught me to be real and fair. He is the prime example that the biggest heart belongs not to the giants but to the man who can love the most. My goal in life is to surpass my father's greatness. To my noble parents, yours is this recognition! I won't be here without you.