Challenging times will always come your way but the key is to keep on fighting through it. Never forget that there are people there to fight with you and who will fight for you in a heartbeat. Always remember why you started and how you have grown through the process. The goal is always to grow, not to succeed. Success would only come as an effect of this growth. And whether you succeed or not, never forget to be grateful.

Thank you God.
Thank you parents, wala ako kung wala kayo. Thank you Christa and Buboy, for being thesis mates. Thank you friends and blockmates, especially the barangay Y1. College wouldn't have been the same without you guys. OH YEAH!!!! Thank you high school at south friends, mga solid kayong tao. Thank you profs, especially my psych, theo, and philo profs for shedding light on the experiences of life. Thank you Sir Tim, for everything. Ang saya ng apat na taon ko dito. On to the next one!
