

Francis Howi Manul M. Bakunawa

Dear Ateneo, thank you for shaping me into someone better, stronger, and kinder. No single letter will ever be able to encompass the things I've learned here. Filled with pain and love, I've learned about the importance of perseverance and second chances. I learned that sometimes life seems to lead you astray, but you will always end up right where you should be.

Marianne Angeli D. Barrameda

For my parents. For my family, and the family I will one day have. For my friends, my constants. For the detours. For my country, for the fringes, for the little guy. For the greater glory of God. And for Mars Barrameda, because by goodness, you made it. Here's to what comes next.
