

Jake Michael S. Dy

I believe that life is a series of great journeys to a set of greater destinations. In what seemed like the shortest 4 years of my life, my journey in Ateneo has come and gone. Through this journey, I carry with me friends I now call family, lessons from past mistakes, experiences I have grown from, a far better version of myself, and the challenge to continuously grow. Now, as I start a new journey towards another destination, I have plenty of reasons to always look back and be thankful.

MINOR IN LITERATURE (ENGLISH)

Camil Ram M. Ferrer

Camil always finds a way to be kind and understanding despite the stress and pressure that life brings. She is, no doubt, a fighter for what she believes is right and has always sought to become a true leader. For Camil, it has never been about the glory or the limelight. It has always been about genuine service, especially to those who need it the most. What matters for her the most is to live out of love through Him who gives grace. (V. Paredes)