

Dahee Boo

Sorry to all my friends who had to deal with my tardiness and miscalls. But I guess those are all part of my charm? (Wink wink). Thanks for taking part in my bitter-sweet, thrilling, yet fun rollercoaster ride, and for accepting me for who I am. I'll probably miss everyone, but I want to graduate already. Maghad.

Ma. Isabella C. Bunag

I was never alone throughout my journey in Ateneo. I met passionate and inspiring people, wise and caring mentors, and true friends. They served as my anchor by helping me grow and discover myself. I have formed relationships that I know will last a lifetime. As we go down the hill together, we will continue to be more and to do more because today's best can be better tomorrow.