

Francis Ric A. Villasis

A thousand miles away from the guidance of my family, the first thing I learned was to captain the ship that would be my life here. And what a life it has been, for it was full of laughs, both in celebration and in self-deprecation, since yes, another lesson learned was humility. But this did not deter us from waking up before dawn once again, for we grew in purpose. With determination, I can say that through these years, from atop the hill, I have and will continue to be a man for others.

Renz Matthew C. Yutuc

“Everyone you will ever meet knows something you don’t.” (Bill Nye)