

Benjamin Mari Y. Limjap

I've spent more time with Lim than my family in the last four years. Let that sink in. I see him almost every day, but we're not sick of each other yet.

Why is this?

Well, he is a straight-up amazing dude. It's unfair. He can play any instrument, he sings better than anyone on The Voice, and yet he offers it all to God and country. He's the best example of a man for others, and is the most humble guy I know. If my kids ask me for someone to look up to, my answer will be Paolo Lim. (R. Galvez)

John Paulo D. Llamera

Jopau is easy to spot in a crowd because of his height and even easier to recognize because of his warmth. With light words and a playful demeanor, he effortlessly catalyzes interaction within a group. With focus, initiative, and determination, he surpasses the hurdles of everyday academic and extracurricular college life while consciously exploring growth in his personal capacities – a true leader by example. He is humor and talent personified, while staying humble and grounded at all times.
