“A life spent making mistakes is not only more honorable, but more useful than a life spent doing nothing.” (George Bernard Shaw)

Through smoke-tanged lips and alcohol-soaked tongues, wailing of the walls and comforting shoulders, consecutive sleepless days and piles of papers, blinking cursors of unsent replies, nights we wish would last forever, parking lot love stories, slow whispers and loud laughter in 1520, card games in MVP, and Fridays in Gonzaga; we are still here.

As I stand on this hill, I look towards a new adventure. There will be more tears, more disappointment, and above all, more love to feel. Keep going.
